ORS' Psychological Services include both evidence-based interventions and psychological assessments for individuals experiencing mental health issues, developmental delays and cognitive difficulties, with the aim to improve their overall functioning and quality of life.

Our experienced psychologists are able to provide evidence-based therapy due to their extensive training and qualifications, wide range of experiences, and our internal professional development program.

Assessments at ORS

Psychological assessments cover a broad range of assessments aimed to evaluate a person's presentation, behaviour, mental health and cognition, and to identify suitable recommendations and services to improve their overall quality of life relative to these areas.

How can they help you?

Psychological assessments are useful in determining diagnoses (if appropriate), informing evidence-based interventions and assisting to gather evidence to support referrals and applications to services. The most appropriate assessment is individualised and determined by understanding the person's difficulties and presenting concerns.

Our psychological services and assessments include:

-  IQ assessment
-  Psychoeducational assessment
-  ADHD assessment
-  Autism diagnostic assessment
-  Autism diagnostic review assessment
-  Decision-making capacity assessment
-  Risk assessment
-  Vocational assessment
